

Joint Bracco Foundation - Chinese Radiology Society programme

The joint Bracco Foundation - Chinese Radiology Society programme, which marks the first important collaboration between Bracco Foundation and the Chinese Radiology Society, was presented to the City of Milan in a press conference attended by institutional representatives and a select group of Oriental radiologists, winners of the scholarships.

On November 18, 2011 in Shanghai, during the celebrations of the 10th anniversary of the joint venture Bracco Sine Pharmaceutical Corp. Ltd, Bracco Foundation presented a two-year programme for young Chinese radiologists chosen by the Chinese Radiology Society.

In 2013 Bracco Foundation also entered a partnership with the Chinese Ultrasound Doctors Association (CUDA).

The programme offers three months of specialisation in Italy in radiology in Hospital structures and leading universities.

Each scholarship holder will be assigned a Mentor who will offer scientific guidance and technical advice during the three-month stay in Italy.

The Chinese Radiology Society and the Chinese Ultrasound Doctors Association will follow the selection of the most deserving students and will select the areas of specialisation for their stay in Italy.

The aim is to contribute to the avant-garde scientific training of Chinese radiologists of the future.

Candidates must be Chinese citizens, specialising in radiology and with a good knowledge of English.
